

Officers' Handbook

This handbook provides each NRMERA officer and appointed personnel with guidelines concerning the position each holds within the organization. Each person should become familiar with their respective position responsibilities and how they relate to all other positions in order to have a thorough knowledge of the workings of the Board. Organizations work best if those in charge work as an integral whole.

Meetings

The Executive Board of the organization holds two meetings per year (unless otherwise specified by the Board). The first is immediately prior to the annual conference and the second immediately follows the conference. All members of the organization are encouraged to attend the annual business meeting held during the conference and are welcomed to attend executive board meetings unless 2/3rds majority of the Executive Board votes to close the meeting. Only personal matters can result in an executive (closed) session. A quorum consists of a majority of the members present and eligible to vote. This applies to all meetings of the organization including the Executive Board.

Executive Board

The Executive Board consists of the elected officers of the Association and the representatives for each of the constituent states as well as the at-large representative. The elected officers of NRMERA consist of the President, President-Elect, Immediate Past President, Secretary-Treasurer, Constituent State Representatives, and At-Large Representative. Along with these elected positions, there are six appointed ad hoc positions include Program Chair, Conference Site Director, Researcher Editor, Membership Chair, Conference Evaluator, and Newsletter Editor. Each of the elected and appointed positions plays an integral part in the operation of the organization.

Executive Board is responsible to: * Develop and implement policy affecting the Association. * Hold meetings at such times and places as it deems appropriate. * Appoint committees on particular subjects. * Audit bills and disburse the funds of the Association. * Print and circulate documents and publish articles. * Employ staff and consultants as appropriate. * Devise and implement other measures as it deems appropriate for the good of the Association. * Verify as well as maintain a current membership roster and institutional affiliation.

President

The president shall call and preside at the Executive Board meetings, the Annual meeting including the Annual Business meeting and special meetings. The president
